SHERLOCK LADIES CLUB

The anniversary of the opening of the school was celebrated by a dance held under the auspices of the above club. A large crowd was in attendance and enjoyed themselves to the full extent, under the capable floor management of Mr. George Masson along with the music provided by the Mathieson boys.

The proceeds in aid of the Club amounted to well over $20.00 and thus a small balance was carried over after all expenses were deducted.

Marsden-Manitou Lake Picnic Is Well Attended

As the years roll on the old-fashioned picnic increases its popularity, and has risen from the gathering of a few neighbours and friends to the mammoth affair of this year when one can safely say that there were well over the thousand present. One naturally looked around for the old timers and there were still some of those present who were there some 19 years ago, and whereas the travelling in those days was by wagon train and even stageboats, to-day one gazed on the innumerable cars which were the chief mode of conveyance, and in spite of the various amusements offered to-day one still wondered deep down whether the old fashioned "good-will" picnic of years ago was not

FROM HERE & THERE

Edgerton Echoes

We have enjoyed a week of extremely favourable weather and crops in this district are looking splendid. Different parties who have been away in different parts of the country tell us that we have the best prospects anywhere. It will not be a very big surprise to see 1915 surpassed.

H. Spornitz almost developed seasickness last week. Funny disease isn't it? The way he plied his torsorial trade among the ladies, who finally made up their minds that the bob was the only escape this hot weather, was a caution. We just naturally happened in at the time and there were many waiting their fate while others were there just extolling the many virtues of the 'bob'.

Quite a few citizens have taken up their abode at the lake and they say it is immense except when you can't get your car to function and you have to walk to town. Well, it might never happen again. So that's that:

Two cars of Edgerites took the long jaunt to Bigrig to see the local horse clean up at the races. Gorton of Edgerton and Ferry of Provost were both in the money. 'Sparky' was working swell.

Dr. Melling is having a vacation in Edmonton for a day or so, as is also Arthur Umbach of the Kelly Hardware staff. We venture a guess that both will have a try with the driver and mashie before they come back. Both of them are inveterate devotees of golf.

White's Lake was the venue for a very happy throng of picnickers last Wednesday, this is an annual event which I always find of interest and well attended. W. Kennedy supplied necessary refreshments.

The steel piles, and decking for the new bridge and now pretty well all on the site and the next move will be to put it in place. Sidecup citizens will not be sorry for they have not been any too well treated in the way of road accommodation to town in the past.

A very jolly party met at the home of Mrs. Bonner's to entertain Miss Smith before leaving our little burg. Miss Smith has been very well thought of and took great interest in her pupils at school but is leaving shortly, and it was arranged to have this little surprise party in the guise of a presentation. Quite a number of ladies were present and in few well chosen words ?? Mrs. Bonner (who was speechless with nervousness) presented Miss Smith with an atomizer and an ivory photo frame, Miss Smith about the same state of mind as Mrs. Bonner feelingly thanked them in looks, if not in words. They had a merry time all right.

Unwin News

The Meridian Oil Syndicate have unloaded two cars of material at Unwin on Tuesday last. More material is expected shortly and drilling operations will start shortly on the Meridian around the ridge on the Blackfoot coulee.

The C. P. R. are busy hauling gravel from their gravel trains. They are working night and day. Four trains are kept on the hove-

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wendl are starting for Lake Field, Minn., on Wednesday for a holiday of six weeks. They will motor to Winona again then head for the Border.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. McCutchen of Des Moines, Iowa are spending a month's holiday with their son Don McCutchen.

North-East Notes

One met quite a lot of old friends at the Manitou Lake picnic.

Quite a number of people are going on vacation this summer—Cold Lake, Saskatoon, and Regina being the most prominent places named.

The Liberals beaten at Ottawa. The conservatives take over the reins.—Progressives split.—What next. A general election? Sure.

The Lloydminster baseball team seemed pretty sure of taking the $100.00 on Dominion Day, but reckoned without Neilburg who beat them in the final 4-1.

The new residence being erected by Gunnard Anderson is rapidly taking shape.

Mr. Clarence Melmes has purchased the house vacated by Mr. A. E. Ringer and is moving in.

New apples, apricots, peaches, plums etc., etc., at Saker's.

Articles inlaid with pearl are found in the ruins of Pompeii.

CHAPTER XXVII

Two Who Loved

Jesse Wingate made a swift instinctive motion toward the revolver which swung at his hip. But Jed sprang between him and Banion.

"No! Hold on, Pap—stop!" Jed cried. "It's all right. I brought him in."

"As a prisoner?"

"I am no man's prisoner," Captain Wingate," said Banion's deep voice.

His eyes were fixed beyond the man to whom he spoke. He saw Molly, to whom her mother now ran to take the white face in her own hands. Wingate looked from one to the other.

"Why do you come here? What have you done that you should bring me trouble as you always have?" And what do you owe me?"

"I owe you nothing!" said Banion. "You owe me nothing at all. I have not travelled in your train and I shall not travel in it. I tell you once more that you are wrong in your beliefs; but till I can prove it, I won't risk any arguments about it."

"Then why do you come to my camp now?"

"You should know."

"I do know. It's Molly."

"It's Molly, yes. Here's a letter from her. I found it in the cabin at Ash Hollow. Your friend Woodhill could have killed me—but he passed him just now."

Jed could have killed me—you can now; it's easy. But that would change me. Perhaps it wouldn't change her."

"You came here to face me down?"

"No sir. I know you for a brave man, at least. I don't believe I'm a coward—I never asked."

But I came to see Molly because she asked it. I don't know why. Do you want to shoot me like a coyote?"

"No. But I ask you what do I owe you?"

"Nothing. But can we trade? If I promise to leave you with my train?"

"You want to steal my girl?"

"No! I want to earn her—some day."

The old Roman before him was a man of quick decisions. The very courage of the young man had it's appeal.

"At least you'll eat," said he. "I'd not turn even a black Seesee away hungry—not even a man with your record in the army."

"No, I'll not eat with you."

"Wait then! I'll send the girl along pretty soon, if you are here by her invitation. I'll see her never invites you again."

Wingate walked toward his wagon. Banion kept out of the light circle and round his horse. He stood, leaning his head on his arms on the saddle waiting until after what seemed an age she slipped out of the darkness, almost into his arms, standing pale, her fingers lacing and unlacing—the girl who had kissed him once—to say good-by.

"Will Banion?" she whispered. "Yes, I sent you her. I felt you'd find my letter."

"Yes, Molly." It was a long time before he would look at her. "You're the same," said he. "Only you've grown more beautiful every day. It's hard to leave you—awfully hard. I couldn't if I saw you often."

He reached out again and took her in his arms softly, and kissed her tenderly on each cheek, whispering things that lovers do say. But for his arms, she would have dropped again, she was so weak. She fought him off feebly.

"No! No! It is not right. No! No!"

"You're not going to be with us any more?" she said at last)

He shook his head. They both looked at his horse, his rifle, swung in its sling strap at the saddle horn. She shook her head also.

"Is this the real good-by, Will? Her lips trembled.

"It must be. I have given my word to your father. But why did you send for me? Only to torture me? I must keep my word to hold my train apart. I've promised my men to stick with them."

"Yes, you mustn't break your word. And it was fine to see you just for a minute, Will, just to tell you—oh, to say I love you, Will! But I didn't think that was why I sent. I sent to warn you—against him. It seems always to come to the same thing."

She was trying not to sob. The man was in but little better case. The stars did not want them to part. All the somber wilderness world whispered for them to love and not to part at all. But after a time they knew that they again had parted, or now were able to

18 Nations Represented at Girl Guide Conference

Canadian Pacific Liner Metta leaving Canadian Metropolis with Girl Guides.

Representing eighteen nations of the world, a party of twenty-nine girl scouts and guides, said to be from Montreal, recently left the Canadian Pacific liner "Metta" after having attended the International Conference of Girl Guides in New York. When they had arrived at the Wilson Stadium, Montreal, in Buffalo, a delegation of Montreal officials met them and accompanied them to the pier.

Miss Lydia Luchom, assistant in charge of the party, said that she insisted that the greatest friendly feelings that had been created would be greater concord of the spirit of instrumental in advancing the Girl Scouts Movement through a closer relationship.

At present there are girl scout and girl guide organizations in every community centre in Canada and the United States, while many of the rural districts are showing signs of interest in these organizations. The girls who were with the party, who arrived in New York on May 5, came to see for themselves the organization systems in force here. They visited Boston, Washington, Detroit, Buffalo, Toronto and Montreal.

In the Canadian metropolis the visitors were welcomed by Mrs. G. H. Duggan, provincial divisional commissioner; Mr. and Mrs. Marley Campbell, commanding officers; Captain G. H. Ross, president Montreal Committee; Mrs. Ross McDonald, district commissioner. There were also a number of guide leaders and captains.

EFFECT OF BAD EGGS ON EGG CONSUMPTION

Every time the consumer gets a bad egg or an egg of bad quality the consumption of eggs in that household is apt to be lessened, says the Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, in a statement on the egg industry. He declared that many instances could be cited where customers had been lost and the sale of eggs curtailed on an entire market without the producer knowing what had happened. Too often producers are not aware of the many causes which bring about deterioration of eggs. They are inclined to believe that because their eggs are newly gathered they must be fresh and of good quality, forgetting that freshly gathered and freshly laid are not necessarily synonymous, and that stolen nests may contain fresh eggs and badly incubated eggs in the same gathering. Again, the kind of feed given to hens has a great effect on the eggs they produce. Clean feed and clean water result in high grade eggs, while the opposite is true when hens are obliged to pick up their living in the barnyard and drink barn-yard water.

GROW ALFALFA AND SWEET CLOVER
Land manured and planted to corn or corn or potatoes, and properly cultivated, is in the best possible condition for seeding alfalfa or sweet clover, and any land that grows corn or potatoes will successfully produce alfalfa. Corn and alfalfa are complementary and the feeding of these two crops together produces the best possible results.

Sowing alone on firm, well prepared corn or potato land, either early, before the weed have started or June 1st, after weeds have started and been killed by disk ing, is perhaps the most certain method of starting alfalfa. When seeded alone, the weeds will usually need clipping a time or two the first year. If the season is favorable a fair crop of alfalfa and pigeon grass may be taken off. But unless the growth is so heavy that it would smother the alfalfa, it should be left on the ground. The alfalfa should not be cut so late that it will not make good growth before winter, and in August 1st is the latest it should be cut the first year.

Six to eight pounds of seed to the acre is sufficient, depending on the rainfall and condition of the soil at time of seeding. Proper inoculation is essential and pure cultures or soil from an old alfalfa or sweet clover field should be used, if alfalfa or sweet clover have not been grown on the land previously. Mixed alfalfa and sweet clover, three to four pounds of each per acre, is a successful method of starting alfalfa. When there is sufficient rainfall, alfalfa or sweet clover may be successfully seeded with small grain. Alfalfa and sweet clover may be sown in the same manner.

Sweet clover has proven a valuable crop for pasture and for plowing under as green manure, and will wondrously renewing old wheat land. It may be seeded with the gains and the next year cut for hay, allowed to go to seed, pastured or plowed under. It will prove of great value and we urge seeding it extensively.

Making Alfalfa Hay

Alfalfa hay is no more difficult to make than any other kind of hay. It should be cut when the new growth starts at the bottom, or when about one-tenth in bloom. Rake into rows as soon as wilted, and put in tall narrow cocks to cure, or leave in a windrow, and stack with sweep rakes. Sweet clover is best for pasture, but makes hay equal to alfalfa when cut and cured properly.

Good alfalfa hay is equal to bran for dairy cows and young stock, and much less grain is required if this hay is available. Alfalfa hay, because of its value, should be fed sparingly, and in combination with other feeds, such as silage, corn fodder, straw or prairie hay.

Stormont, the best mine in Nova Scotia, when gold-mining in the province was an industry, is to be re-opened. Until it closed down, twelve years ago, Stormont mine had produced over 575,000 tons of ore, giving an average of free gold of $4.13 per ton, or $225,000 during its activity.

A record single shipment of Indian moccasins, containing 56 pairs, from Amherst, Mass., recently arrived in Tokyo, Japan, having come forward by Canadian Pacific Rail and steamer lines. The demand for motor-cycles in Japan is a steadily increasing one, being a cheap and convenient method of locomotion and well suited to the somewhat narrow roads of that country.

Twenty-one British Rotarians recently came over to Canada on the Canadian Pacific liner "Montclare" en route to the International Rotary convention at Denver. On their return trip they came back through Canada, travelling to Winnipeg and Fort William, and taking the Great Lakes trip on C.P.R. steamboat to Port McNicoll. They returned to the Old Country by the C.P. liner "Montcalm."

The Canadian Pacific Railway has just added two of the new Mount Clans observation cars to those running out of Montreal. Five more are just about ready to run and the balance of four cars will be ready for service shortly after these. ## Historic Coldstreams Band in Canada

(1) Band Grouped Prior to Sailing for Canada.

(2) Lieut. R. G. Evans, Director of Music to the Coldstream Guards.

The band of the famous Coldstream Regiment, the "Lineal descendants of the Royal Model," the first Regular Army band which was raised and disbanded by Oliver Cromwell, are touring Canada this summer under the direction of Lieut. R. G. Evans. The Lord Mayor of Liverpool was on the dock when the band embarked on the Canadian Pacific liner "Montcalm" and received them with a hearty welcome.

Arriving in Quebec on June 25, the band proceeded on their way West, where they will fulfil a number of engagements at the Brandon, Saskatoon and Regina exhibitions, and the Calgary Stampede. Their tour will probably extend as far as the Pacific Coast, including also visits to Vancouver and Winnipeg. Returning in the fall, the band will play at the Toronto Exhibition, and embark for home on the "Empress of Scotland" on September 16.

The last visit paid to Canada by the Coldstream Guards was in 1914, under the direction of Lieut. Col. MacKenzie-Ross, son of the Ross's famous bandmaster, who enlisted as a band boy in 1887 and rose to be Director of Music to the Coldstream Guards and Senior Director of the Brigade Guards. When Col. MacKenzie-Ross became Director of the band its total strength was thirty-four performers, but when he handed it over to his successor, Lieut. Evans, in 1920, the band establishment was sixty-six.

There is evidence that a Coldstream Band existed in 1842. At first its members were civilians, but in 1783 the officers petitioned their Colonel, the Chief of the band of regular attested musicians and got it. This band included two oboes, four clarinets, two bassoons, one trumpet, two horns and one serpent. In 1815 when the band had been augmented by the introduction of several more instruments, it was ordered to Paris during the occupation by the allies.

Messrs G. Newstead, A. McSorley and other neighbours were present to do their bit. Two ladies looked after the refreshments for the workers.

The Edmonton Exhibition this year will have much of interest for all those who have been in Alberta for a number of years and also for anyone who is interested in the progress of Alberta during the past hundred years.

The Histoical Pageant, commemorating the coming-of-age of the city and province, will be a truly artistic and educational treat. Participated in by a cast of 600 performers, trained in the historical scenes and dances by experts, and assisted by a chorus of 200 voices; it will be a spectacle of great beauty. Never before has such a stupendous production been attempted by local talent and those who miss it will undoubtedly regret it.

Another real attraction this year is the famous Band of His Majesty's Coldstream Guards.

most wonderful musical organization in the British Empire. The band will play each day at the Edmonton Fair and if you hear nothing else you will be amply repaid for your visit.

The Association has made the usual arrangements for camping grounds for any out-of-town motor parties. These grounds are fully equipped for camping purposes and are free to out-of-town visitors.

Arrangements have been also made with the railways for excursion rates from all points in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

SALAD IN RHYME

"Two boiled potatoes, strained through a kitchen sieve, Softness and smoothness to the salad give;

Or mordant mustard take a single spoon—

Distrust the condiment that bites too soon;

Yet deem it not, thou man of taste a fault,

To add a double quantity of salt Four times the spoon with oil of Lucre crown,

And twice with vinegar procured From town;

True taste requires it, and your poet begs

The pounded yellow of two well-peeled eggs.

Let onion's atoms lurk within the bowl:

And scarce suspected, animate the whole;

And lastly in the flavored compound toss

A magic spoonful of anchovy sauce.

Oh, great and glorious! Oh, herbaceous meat!

Twould tempt the dying anchorite to eat.

Back to the world he'd turn his weary soul,

And plunge his fingers in the salad bowl."

No Wonder Canadians are Handsome

CHAUVIN men and women owe much good looks and beauty to their country, says Pen Chung Fann, of Shanghai, alias Paul C. Fann, of Montreal, who believes that the physical and racial factors in the evolution of the human species. On the whole, this young Chinese philosopher thinks, Canadians considered collectively, are much better than the Chinese because of their association with more beautiful surroundings.

"This is a very old theory," said Mr. Fann in a recent interview, "and a very well-founded one." He pointed out the fact that the inhabitants of the vast barren deserts of the interior of China, which is the native of the Province of Kiangsu, the most fertile and beautiful of Chinese provinces, could be recognized anywhere for their great beauty.

That may be true, but the rest will not take care of itself—that is Mr. Fann's recipe for good looks. Canadians, he says, have carried out this theory unconsciously with the result that their country has not only great natural beauty but fine cities and thousands of acres of beautiful farms land.

The Canadian Pacific Railway with which Mr. Fann has been associated for the past two and a half years has played a great part in beautifying Canada he railway training.

says, as well as assisting in the country's development in many other ways.

Paul C. Fann, as he is known in Montreal is a grandson of Chih-tung, the son of a Mandarin, and is 26 years old. In the two and a half years, under an arrangement between the Governments of China and Canada, he has been making a survey of the Canadian Pacific Railway System with the idea of applying his scientific knowledge that he hopes to apply to the railroad problems of his own country. He and several other young Chinese students arrived in Montreal in December 1923, and since then have been in Montreal. Mr. Fann had been employed in the Anglo-Chinese and Macau P. & T. Co., and was also a student at McGill University, where he took an M.Sc. degree, and is at present working for the Ministry of Railways with headquarters receiving the Fall, before returning to China in October. Mr. Fann leaves the Canadian Pacific Railway Company at the end of this month, but will travel through Canada during the summer. The building in the photograph is the Windsor Street Station, Montreal, where Mr. Fann received most of his Canadian Pacific

DIVERSIFIED FARMING MEANS SUCCESS

the producing power of the soil and there is no means of doing this except by rotating crops, feeding livestock and putting manure back on the land. Later we may need to supply some mineral elements of plant food.

Having a good pure bred herd or a beef breed, milking a few cows, growing hogs or sheep, keeping a flock of poultry, and making a garden, are the most certain means of adding to or increasing the income from the farm. The first purpose of the farm should be to afford a good living to the farmer and his family, and this is most economically done by producing on the farm, so far as possible, everything that is needed. When this is done there is more money to spend for permanent improvements, comforts and pleasures.

No Royal Road to Success

The foregoing outline in changing our farming system / which must inevitably be made, from depending on a single crop in a diversified system of farming, is not attractive to many. It means more work of a character that has caused some men to leave stock and dairy regions for the reason that grain farming seemed more attractive. Many have seen where the one-crop road was lead and have turned off. The more promptly the change is made, the better. Diversified farming—cutting down the acreage by increasing the yield of small grains by growing corn, clover and rotating crops and feeding livestock—is the road out of the wilderness, so hit the trail! Let's go!

Here and There

S. Janowski and P. Stachauer, the former Polish immigration delegate and the latter a delegate from the Polish Minister of Agriculture, are in Canada for a six-week study of farming conditions in western sections of the Dominion. They will also look into the distribution of work among the Polish colonies in Canada.

Four fishermen from the United States went fishing on the Cains River, New Brunswick, for 13 days recently, and caught 340 fish. State Senator Bradford, of Indiana, caught a 43-inch salmon weighing 27 pounds. Others in the party were: Fred N. Peet, Dr. E. R. Zimmerman and D. H. Faxon. Only barbless hooks were used so that no fish were either killed or injured.

The second largest outdoor swimming pool in Canada has been opened at Lake Louise on the Terrace between the dining room of the Chateau and the Lake. The new pool is 100 feet long and 40 feet wide. It is surrounded by tall concrete columns between which there are gigantic sheets of plate glass, providing a wind break against cool breezes.

Approximately 120,000 live fish, fresh from American hatcheries, passed through Dominion Express Yards, Windsor Station, Montreal, recently, on their way to Beauchaine, Quebec. They will be used to stock private lakes in northern Quebec owned by wealthy citizens of the U.S.A., who prefer the virgin hills and forests of Canada to the densely populated summer resorts of their own country.

Norman E. Wilkinson, London, England, inventor of camouflage paintings which were used extensively during the late war, arrived in Canada on the Canadian Pacific liner "Montreal" with his wife recently, for a tour of the Dominion. Sir Clifford Sifton, prominent Toronto, and Sir Stephord Prunton, M.I.M.E., famous mineral geologist, also arrived on the same vessel.

Col. C. H. D. Ryder, C.B., C.I.E., D.S.O., chairman of the Air Survey Company of London, England, interviewed Premier Mackenzie King and the prime ministers of the various provinces with regard to finding out the prospects of surveying practically the whole of the Dominion by air. He also wishes to know about the possibility of combining federal and provincial action for these surveys.

On his return from a recent tour of inspection of the Company's Western Lines, Grant Hall, Vice-President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, stated that exports to the Orient in the form of grain, flour, dressed meats and motor cars were steadily increasing in volume and that trade with Australia had been considerably stimulated by the trade arrangements with that Dominion. Mr. Hall added that conditions were good in the West. The mining industry in British Columbia showed up well, while lumber shipments were heavier than last year.

All roads led to Windsor Station, Montreal, for three days prior to the opening of the tenth annual International Kiwanis convention, which opened on June 6. Not only was the O.P.R. station the gateway through which an army of Kiwanians passed into Montreal, but, every one of the delegates, their wives and friends, about 7,000 in all, congregated there as the station had been constituted registration headquarters of the convention. A force of 32 stenographers was specially engaged to handle the work.

Strapping Scots for the Prairies

"We will do our best and try to make good." With these words the lads, plied with coffee, stepped aboard the Canadian Pacific S.S. Montreal bound for Canada, where they will take up farming. They are the eight Scotch boys and are in the best of physical condition for their laborious work out west. These strapping youths were very optimistic and anxious to commence the first lap of their long journey. From left to right the photograph shows: W. A. Ferguson, Canadian Government Agent; and the six sturdy Scotch lads: E. Ferguson, Edinburgh; J. Bryden, Paisley; J. McCole, D. Robertson and J. McCole of Glasgow; and W. Thomson, Castle Cary.
